

I strongly oppose any attempt to overturn Indiana's telephone privacy laws. The Consumers Banking Association does not speak for me. It seems to me that the FCC has a duty to protect the interests of the taxpayers. A group of businesses seeking to nullify an existing and widely supported Indiana law to further their own marketing efforts contray to the wishes of taxpayers should not be assisted by the FCC.